PODIATRISTS AND DIABETES MANAGEMENT

People living with diabetes are encouraged to see their podiatrist at least twice a year as part of the Annual Cycle of Care. Therefore, in your role as a podiatrist, you have many opportunities to support people living with diabetes and help them reduce their chance of diabetes-related foot complications.

"Diabetes in Practice for Podiatrists is a wonderful user friendly resource to give practitioners a better understanding of diabetes. Foot complications are a common consequence of diabetes and this course enables you to have a supportive conversation with the person living with diabetes to help avoid preventable foot complications."

Dr Frances Henshaw

Lecturer in Podiatry, Podiatric Medicine
Western Sydney University

Our eLearning course has been developed especially for podiatrists, and can be completed anywhere, anytime allowing you to conveniently learn at your own pace.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Diabetes in Practice for Podiatrists will provide you with increased knowledge and understanding of diabetes, enabling you to have meaningful conversations with people living with diabetes using simple, clear language.

By completing this course, you will:

- ✓ Improve your ability to support the person living with diabetes and have a relevant and helpful conversation
- ✓ Be able to perform your role in the Annual Cycle of Care for people living with diabetes
- ✓ Provide advice and up to date education on diabetes management, with the ability to refer on where needed
- ✓ Know how to ask meaningful questions, and what steps to take when faced with a healthy or at risk foot

If you are looking for help to understand the physiological impact chronic diabetes complications have on your patient, Diabetes Essentials is the right course for you - coming February.
